The Greeks have lost a captain and two lieutenants and had nineteen men killed and seventy-five wounded.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Two hundred Turkish soldiers were killed today when a military train was derailed on a railroad connecting Smyrna and Aidin. The train fell over an embankment.

BUTTER STORE

Sold to Louis and Cheney Deem Who Took Charge Tuesday Morning.

Lewis and Cheney Deem have purchased the new butter store on West Main street from McDermott, who opened it several weeks ago.

Cheney Deem, who has been employed at the Bodwen Mercantile Company's store on Main street for the last three years, will be manager of the new store and with his knowledge of the business and the number of friends he has made while in the grocery business he ought to build up a good business.

The Deem brothers took charge of the store Tuesday morning and will continue to run it in the up-to-date manner in which Mr. McDermott has conducted it since its opening.

JUDGE GOFF

Takes Matters into His Own Hands and Recalls Jack Sullivan to Stand.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The defense in the Police Lieutenant Becker case signified that it rested at noon today, but Justice Goff, taking matters in his own hands, reopened the testimony and recalled Jack Sullivan to the stand, who testified that Rose told him he had to testify against Becker to save his life.

Miss Lou Dudley, who spent several days in Parkersburg visiting her sister, Mrs. L. L. O'Neil, returned home Monday night.

Davis a Misfit

Harrison county will give George A. Laughlin a large majority November 5 and thus be a potent factor in sending to Congress a Republican who will vote to keep open Clarksburg's largest industry and not vote to close it down, as Congressman Davis did under the gag put upon him by a Democratic caucus controlled by free trade congressmen representing the states down South.

The above from the Clarksburg Telegram indicates the awakening among the Republicans of West Virginia as to the real importance of the tariff question in this campaign, and to them particularly. The Telegram is published in Harrison county, the home of Congressman John W. Davis. Mr. Davis's personal popularity is considerable, but the substantial Republicans of other counties in the district, have decided that they want in Congress a man who will vote to protect their interests; a man who will stand by the big industries of the district, instead of a man who will accept dictation from and be controlled by a Democratic caucus, which is itself dominated by representatives of the Solid South.

Mr. Davis was appealed to by the working men of Clarksburg, of Weirton, and of Follansbee. He was appealed to by the owners and managers of the big tin plate plants of his district. He was appealed to by the wool growers of his district, and to all of them he made the reply that he must act with the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives and would be controlled by the Democratic caucus. Following that reply, Mr. Davis did vote for the Underwood tariff bills, attacking both the iron and steel industry and the wool growing industry. It is not strange that the 6,000 tin workers in the First congressional district and the almost equal number of farmers who grow wool, have determined that Mr. Davis shall stay at home and that they shall be represented in the House of Representatives by a man who stands for and sympathizes with their business interests.—Wheeling Intelligencer.

DRUNKEN MINERS CAUSING ANXIETY

But It is Now the Intention to Send More Troops Home Anyway.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 22.—There is some uneasiness in the strike district again as a result of drinking on the part of the miners, their carrying of firearms and the numerous Socialist meetings being held throughout the district. How far this uneasiness is going to extend is still problematical. So long as the miners do not get together in great numbers while intoxicated little trouble is anticipated. While martial law prevailed no intoxicants were permitted within the martial law zone, and persons under the influence of liquor who attempted to enter the district were arrested and placed in the guardhouse.

Four companies will go to their homes Thursday and one more Friday, leaving but one company and several squads or a total of about seventy-five men after Friday. One of these squads is a machine gun squad under Captain Hetsinipiller, who has been sent to Coal River Siding.

The employment of officers and privates of the national guard is accepted as evidence that the coal companies desire to meet the wishes of Governor Glasscock in that the best qualified men obtainable shall be employed by the coal companies to guard their properties. The employment of these men has met the approval of the military authorities, but the coal companies and the officers and privates have been informed that they go as private citizens, and their employment in no wise affects their position in the national guard. Under the old system there was no discipline. This the coal companies believe they meet by employing men with military experience.

COUNTY COURT

At the special term of the county court Tuesday, C. Ellsworth Brown took out letters of administration on the estate of the late Elizabeth Rinehart. He gave bond of $6,000 with Frederick W. Cunningham and E. E. Ashcraft sureties. T. W. Miner, W. W. Hess and James Robinson were appointed appraisers of the estate.

Before adjournment the court will act on road and bridge matters.

BOOKKEEPER LEARNS RICHES AWAIT HIM

John C. Beck.

John C. Beck, neely and disheartened bookkeeper of Providence, R. I., has suddenly become Mr. John C. Beck, wealthy, happy and brother of a member of the London stock exchange and London chamber of commerce, brother of a member of the Australian parliament and the possessor in his own right of $400,000. Beck ran away from his home in Edinburgh, Scotland, 20 years ago, when he was nineteen, and lost all track of his family. Since then he has drifted over America. Several years ago his father died leaving him a legacy of $400,000, but he did not know of it until a few days ago when his brother found him by accident while visiting the United States.

TROOPS

John Baine and Milla Bonobislo were fined $1 and costs each Monday night in Justice Gordon's court when they confessed to charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct last Sunday at Dola. They paid the required sums and were released. Constable William Post arrested them at Dola and brought them here for trials.

HATFIELD

ROUSING RECEPTION

Is Given Republican Nominee While Watson's Man Gets a Frost.

POINT PLEASANT, Oct. 22.—Point Pleasant today gave a striking demonstration of the enthusiasm being created by the rival candidates for governor. W. R. Thompson, and Dr. Hatfield. Mr. Thompson preceded his opponent here and early this afternoon began his address before a very meagre audience in the opera house composed largely of school children.

Thompson's address was in the main an appeal to Progressives to support him rather than his opponent. Dr. Hatfield, who has been endorsed by the Progressives of West Virginia as the man who is entitled to their support. Mr. Thompson got two slight cheers, one when he began and the other when he closed. During his entire address not the slightest degree of enthusiasm was shown and the meeting could not be regarded as other than a frost.

When the news was spread that Dr. Hatfield was coming most all of those who were listening to Thompson left the hall and went to the court house where Dr. Hatfield was given a rousing reception.

Dr. Hatfield was late in arriving here, having come from Greenbrier county, where he spoke last night. He flayed those backing the Democratic nominee for governor and urged the great importance of Republican success in the state in the coming election.

WEDDING BELLS

Will Ring at Victoria Tonight When William Prim and Anna Board Are Married.

The Aubrey Stock Company, which is playing on indefinite engagement at the Victoria theater, offers as an added attraction to the patrons of the theater a wedding, which will take place on the stage tonight after the performance of the regular bill, "The Price She Paid," which is pleasing large crowds every night.

Several weeks ago Mr. Hitner, manager of the company, made a very liberal offer through the columns of the Telegram to any couple in the county who would be married there. Mr. William Prim, a very enterprising young man employed at the express office, wishing to get married, took advantage of the offer and all the arrangements were made Tuesday morning for the wedding tonight.

The Rev. Felix K. Struve, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will perform the ceremony, uniting in marriage William Prim and Anna E. Board, and members of the stock company will attend the bride and bridegroom.

ROOSEVELT IS NOT TOO ILL TO GO AFTER BILL BRYAN

Davis Defiant

That is a silly argument that the Exponent puts up that mill workers are intimidating themselves when they declare that they do not intend to vote to give John W. Davis another chance to vote to shut down the mills in which they are now working and thus throw them out of work.

By the way, did not Davis, or his friends, induce a lot of such Republicans to vote for him two years ago on the assurance that he merely wanted to go to Congress one term, leaving the impression that it was the honor he sought?

What did he seem to care about the interest of these workers after he got there? Did he do anything for them or anything they asked? No. What he did do was to try to "revise" the tariff out of existence and destroy the mills of the country.

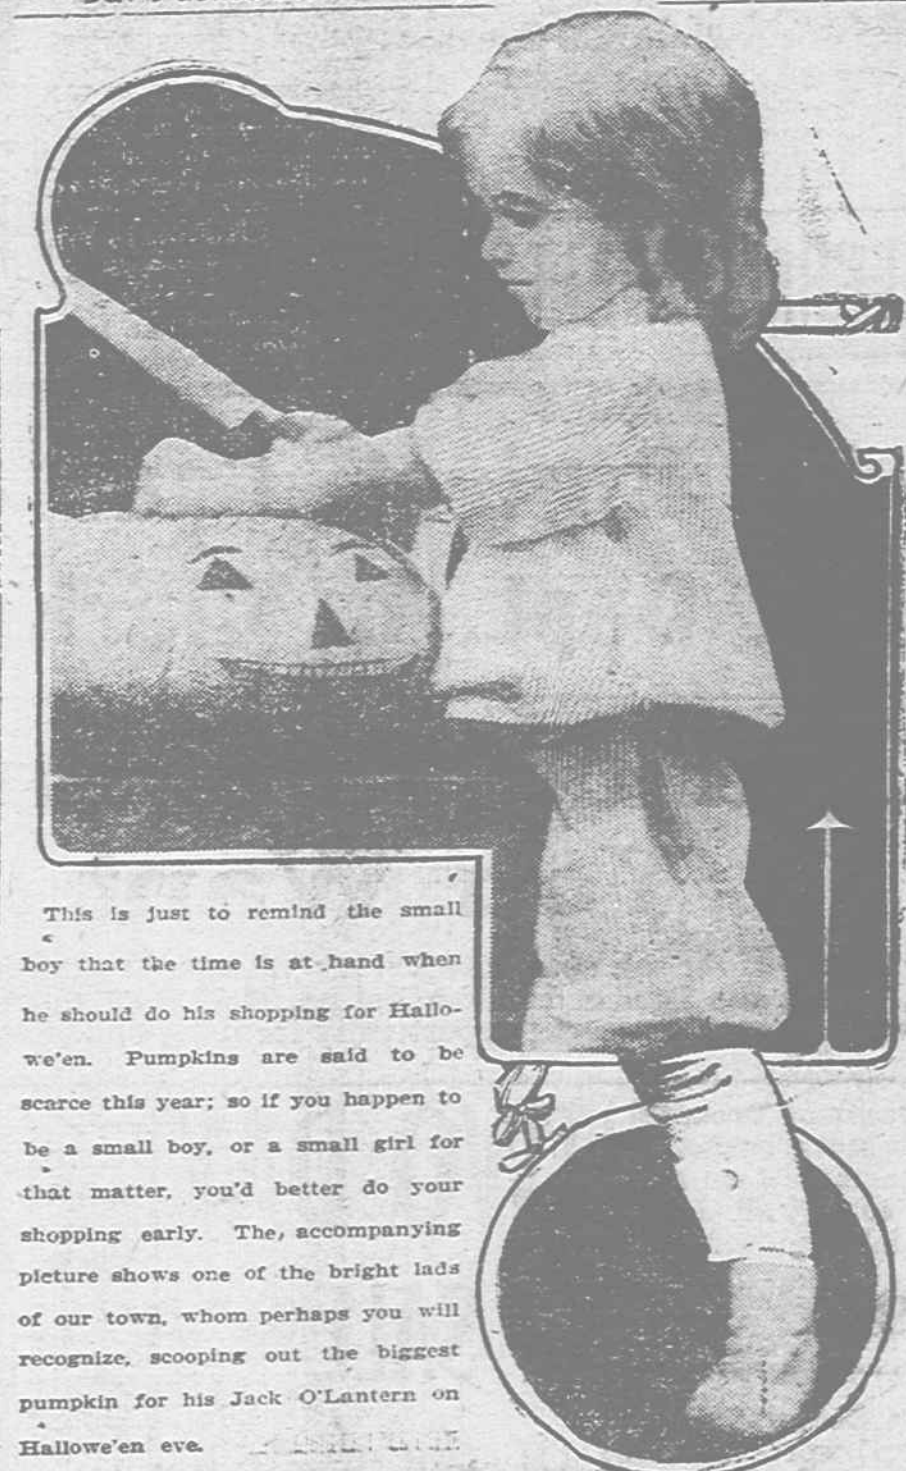

Men do not intimidate themselves or one another by protesting against deeds that would destroy them. There is nothing cowardly in their act of telling the public that they do not want their enemy sent back to Congress to vote to kill their business and throw them out of jobs.

Congressman Davis did not go to Congress for the honor there was in it. He went for a purpose and his course there revealed the purpose. His votes placed his purpose on record. Those votes were to close down or cripple the mills in his district and destroy industry in various lines in his district. If his votes did not reflect his purpose, they show that his lack of resolution under the influence and compulsion of a caucus of free trade Democrats from down South resulted in the greatest menace his district has had since it suffered the terrible effects of Democratic tariff tinkering under Grover Cleveland.

If it be contemptible for workingmen and their friends to warn the country against a congressman who votes to throw them out of their jobs and make them Coxey army recruits, it is certainly damnable for him or his advocates to insist on his being delegated to do the very things they say will impoverish them.

No one but a fool believes that workingmen have not the right to vote for their own interest and no greater foolishness was ever exhibited than to declare that they are intimidating themselves when they assure Davis and his party that they have had enough of him and his free trade theories.

Davis defies them. They will take heed.

This is just to remind the small boy that the time is at hand when he should do his shopping for Halloween. Pumpkins are said to be scarce this year; so if you happen to be a small boy, or a small girl for that matter, you'd better do your shopping early. The accompanying picture shows one of the bright lads of our town, whom perhaps you will recognize, scooping out the biggest pumpkin for his Jack O'Lantern on Halloween eve.

STANDS TRIP WELL

Wound is Oozing But His General Condition is Encouraging.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Colonel Roosevelt and party arrived at the Pennsylvania railroad station from Chicago shortly after 3 o'clock this morning.

The colonel was eating breakfast when the train entered the shed. He had risen early and was fully dressed.

The colonel's car and a car containing newspaper men were quickly detached and started for Oyster Bay. Doctors Lambert and Terrell said that the wound was doing some better than he was in excellent condition. They issued the following bulletin:

"Colonel Roosevelt is very cheerful after a good night's rest. He is feeling very well and stood the journey well."

Roosevelt and his secretary were busy until late last night, looking for an old speech of the colonel on trusts. This was the basis of a recent attack by Bryan and the colonel said that he would reply to it either in a statement or from the platform.

Roosevelt left the train at Bryant four miles from Sagamore Hill and was driven home in a machine. When he arrived home the wound was dressed and he went to bed immediately with instructions to remain there during the day. The physicians said the wound showed no ill effects from the trip.
